SJC Students Kick Off Year with Fun - Filled, Traditional Activities...

by Melinda Burdan

Throughout the course of first semester, many different groups, clubs, and organizations held several activities. Of course, this year's main event was Fall Fest 2000, which required several hours of strategic planning. While most of SJC's attention was focused on Fall Fest, first semester also showcased many other activities. SUB continued to sponsor several comedians and more big screen movies. In conjunction with Cup O' Joe, SUB also brought many more coffeehouse performers to the St. Joseph's College campus. The annual Little Sibs Weekend proved to be an exciting weekend on campus as always. Campus Ministry continued to support the annual fall camping retreat, which was followed by a Chili supper at Lake Banet. Student Development offered off - campus excursions for those of us who aren't able to leave campus often. These outings satisfied everyone from the sports fanatic to the more conservative, theater goer. One of the complaints most often heard on campus is that there is nothing to do, but with all of the activities being sponsored on and around campus, it is very hard to believe that there is nothing to do here!

SJC's Student Body is Composed of...

	Female	Male
Freshmen	102	106
Sophomores	94	102
Juniors	87	74
Seniors	102	68

August 17 kicked off the beginning of a new era at Saint Joseph's College as the Class of 2004 took part in

Freshmen Orientation

RIGHT: Bernie Balas, President of the Alumni Association, welcomes new Pumas through the front gate of SJC. In addition to helping students find their new home, the Alumni Association presented all incoming students with trash cans.

ABOVE: Dean of Freshmen, Marge McIlwain, gives the freshmen seminar groups instructions on how to complete the relay section of "Puma Olympics." There was also an "Ultimate Frisbee" game and a water gun obstacle course in the Puma Tri-athlon.

RIGHT: Freshmen leaders, Shawn Delahanty and Kris Krouse along with Dave McNelis and Ernest Watson help members of the Class of 2004 move into Gallagher Hall on the first day of orientation. After being here most of the week without very many people, the RAs and freshmen leaders were glad to see bright, new faces!

LEFT: Leslie Clevenger takes her turn in the obstacle course that involved sliding down a Slip-n-Slide. It's probably been quite some time since she has played in such a wet 'n wild manner!

BELOW: Nick Shafer provides "the blood of Christ" to freshmen Kate Nowalk during the opening mass. Not only did the mass serve as an opportunity to attend church with family members, but it also allowed the SJC family to come together and pray that God would oversee the safety of our family.

LEFT: Lea Heishman and Prof. Anne Gull take time out of their busy orientation schedule to eat dinner together at President Skip's house. This has been part of the SJC tradition for several years.

BELOW: Prof. Bonnie Zimmer demonstrates how easy it is to make a tie dyed t-shirt. This activity was just one of many held the day of the "Picnic with the Profs," which is held annually at Lake Banet.

Let The Good Times Keep On Rolling

By: Lea Heishman

People walking everywhere, couches and other furniture creeping slowly up the steps, and more luggage than ever carried up the long and dreading staircase. This is normally the atmosphere as students come together once again for another year of learning.

"Back to school, back to school, to prove to Dad I'm not a fool. I never knew that we could store so many things into a little room," commented Tina Deno.

Most students agree that the dorm space is small and quite amazing when you can have a bedroom, TV room, kitchen, and a study area all designed to fit into what some call a cubby hole.

Although there are restrictions on living space, students such as Chris Campbell agree that it is good to be back on campus to see everyone again. As the new year began, friends were found and the cycle of college life sprouted.

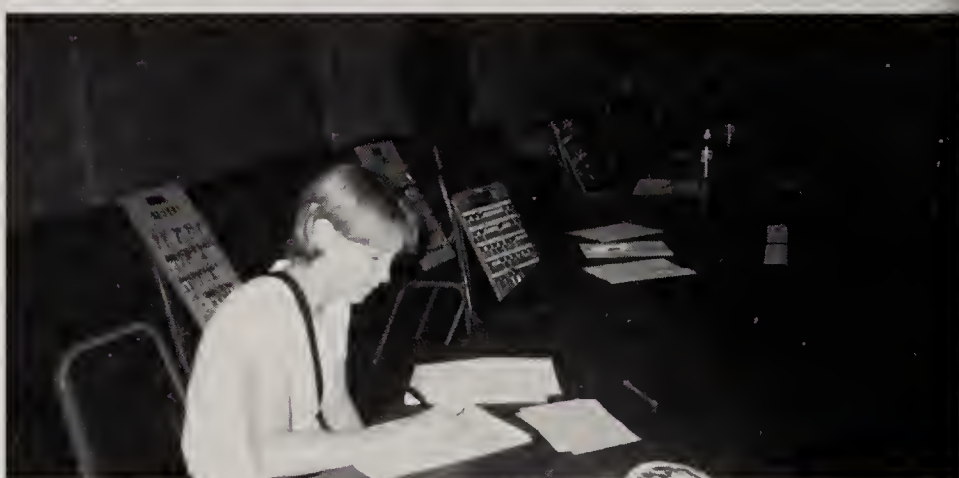

(Above) Freshmen leaders and RAs ponder in fear and await for their turn to wall climb. The nerves were full as the fear of falling crossed everyone's minds.

(Right) Sean Egan is entertained as one of his friends attempts to climb the wall. Betsy Fryksdale, on the other hand, looks a little concerned.

(Right) One of the highlights of being a freshmen leader or even a RA is that there are many events planned for you before the rest of the student body arrives. One of these particular days there are events planned that involve self endurance and trusting your peers. Kelly Dougherty and Beth VonAlmen suit up for the hard and self endured wall climbing that everyone participated in throughout the days events.

When the upperclassmen move in the day can turn into chaos. To help prevent the madness many students take time out of their schedule to help everyone find their keys and register. Pictured above, Autumn Leach, prepares for the next mad rush of people to register. Unlike the freshmen, upperclassmen only get one day to move in instead of the four days that freshmen receive.

"I couldn't believe how easily I adjusted to campus life. We weren't given time to miss our families during orientation, and after that I was just in the swing of things. Saint Joseph's College did a pretty good of making you feel at home."

*Susan Kramer

"Coming back to Saint Joseph's College and moving in is like coming right back home. After the long summer it is really good to see all of your friends again. College is just one of those experiences that you will remember for ever."

*Nicholas Schafer

"When sleeping on the bottom bunk for the first time, be sure your roommate really likes you. My roommate dropped books on my head in the middle of the night! I'm convinced that it was her sign of affection for our new friendship."

*Rachel Lancaster

"I really enjoying moving in for the new year. Getting to see your new room and making it into a home for almost nine months is fun. The only drawback to living in the suites in Halas is that sometimes you have to rearrange your room hundreds of times."

What will the future hold?

Many changes are being made as the new millenium rolls on and Saint Joseph's College keeps right up with it.

Saint Joseph's College is beginning to have a new and outstanding look to it. With all of the new improvements the college campus is forming its own new and exciting identity.

From the new apartment suites, to the new track field, and the redesigning of two residence halls everyone who steps foot on the campus can see the changes that have evolved.

Dani Ramirez gave of minute of her time to comment, "I am very excited about our new track. It will be nice not having to go to the high school to warm up and practice!"

Saint Joseph's campus will be changing even more as we keep moving into the future. With more changes and new projects being completed, they will benefit everyone.

(Above) Mo Egan and other puma movers eagerly assist a freshman and their family into the residence halls. Puma movers are generous faculty and staff who donate their energy and time on the first day of Orientation.

The freshmen picnic and scavenger hunt took many volunteers, teachers, and students to perfect the day for the incoming freshmen. (Left) Stacey Lazenby was just one of these few people to help. Here she stands ready with balloons in hand to make the day more festive and a lot more colorful with the Puma colors.

AND NOW YOUR HALFTIME ENTERTAINMENT...

Members of the SJC Marching Band and Color Guard provide the half-time entertainment at all of this year's home football games. The color guard twirled flags while the band played a tribute to the Beatles.

GO PUMAS!!!

Through the power of Student Association and numerous other sponsors Saint Joseph's College was able to introduce the concept of

Fall Fest 2000

WE ARE FINALLY ALMOST FINISHED...

(Right) The workers for Fall Fest spent the entire week before the event setting up this stage. Here is a picture of the final product with the sound equipment on it!

WEEEEEEEEEEEE!!!!

(Below) Two Fall Fest attendees slide down one of the novelty acts that SUB provided for the event. There was also a comedian, hypnotist, more inflatable activities, and food stands.

ARE YOU FEARING FOR YOUR LIFE?

(Above) Erin Burton and Renee Simon take some time out of their busy schedules to have a little adventure on the TITANIC slide. Don't worry, they both survive as they cling to the top of the "wreckage".

SHOULDN'T YOU GIRLS GET BACK TO WORK?

(Right) Tara Hairston and Megan Taylor helped set up the stage and perform numerous other tasks. Here it looks like they are taking a little break, but they are actually going on a treasure hunt for the needed item of the moment!

AH, THAT'S BETTER...

YOU JUST THINK THAT YOU ARE SO FUNNY!

(Left) Comedian Michael Coleman told many stories to the Fall Fest listeners. He talked about his drive down I-65 for about twenty minutes! As one of his main points he asked the audience if the speed limit was 80 m.p.h. on 65! I guess that depends on who is driving!

YOU LOOK SO BORED AMANDA!

(Below) Amanda Goins and Megan Bodnar were responsible for keeping the bands fed all afternoon. Because all of the bands were completely male bands, it is almost certain that this was quite a task!

WE'RE FINISHED!

(Above) A picture of the finished stage signifies that the preparations are almost complete and it is nearly time for the long-awaited event to begin. Hopefully everyone will drift in after the football game is over!

WHEN I SAY RABBIT, YOUR NOSE WILL TWITCH!

(Left) Hypnotist Frederick Winters was able to kick off the afternoon's festivities. As you can see, several students couldn't wait to be hypnotized. Many of them performed funny stunts while under hypnosis.

And Now for the Main Event - the Bands Sound of Urchin, Electrasy, The Urge, and

THE VERVE PIPE

ALL THIS HARD WORK IS FINALLY PAYING OFF...

(Above) Addie Nicholson, Marley Miller, and Michael Eckhart were able to meet the members of all the participating bands at Fall Fest. A few select students were also able to meet the bands and were able to receive autographed posters from the different groups. The four bands represented were The Sound of Urchin, Electrasy, The Urge and The Verve Pipe.

EVERYBODY SAY "CHEESE!"

(Above) The band Electrasy showed up after the Meet and Greet session, so these girls all had to find their own time to meet them. This band was a big hit with most of the ladies in the crowd.

DANCING THE NIGHT AWAY...

(Right) Freshmen Annie Domasica and Jeff Regan are bustin' a move on the Fall Fest field during The Verve Pipe concert.

WHAT A FUN GROUP...

(Left) Addie Nicholson, Marley Miller, and Mike Eckhart pose here with the lead singer from The Urge and the group, The Sound of Urchin. These three students, who are also members of WPUM, helped make it possible for students to meet the various bands.

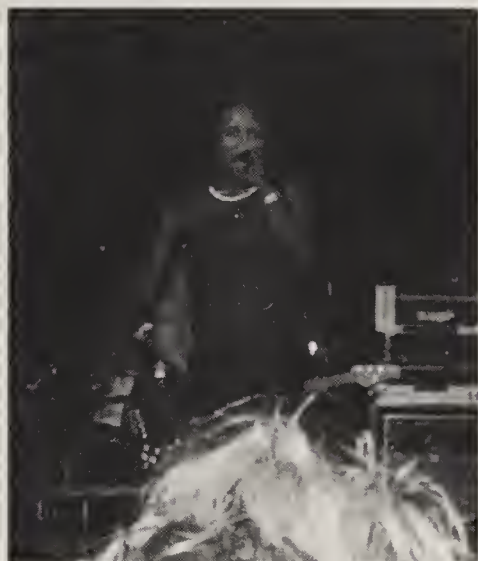

WOOOOOO-WHOOOOOOO...

"TOO MUCH STEREO..."

(Below) The Urge's lead singer, helped by the rest of his band, helped to increase the level of energy flowing through the crowd! By the time The Urge finished their performance, there was so much energy that no one was able to sit still!

LET THE GAMES BEGIN...

(Left) Several members of the audience, including Holly Copeland and Jeff Schroeder, anxiously await the appearance of The Verve Pipe. It won't be long now, guys!

Fall Fest 2000: An inside look

*Fall Fest 2000:
The single largest entertainment event Saint Joseph's College has

Fall Fest 2000 became a household name in the residence halls at Saint Joe beginning in August, 2000. The single largest entertainment event that Saint Joe had ever encountered was on the tips of all tongues around campus and throughout Rensselaer. Taken place on September 23 this proved to be a very memorial Homecoming for all.

Headlining during Fall Fest 2000 was the band The Verve Pipe with The Urge opening for them. But, the musical talent was not the only attraction for the festival. Starting the day off included tons of novelty acts where you could let your inner child run free. The novelty acts included the Titanic, Giant Slide, an obstacle course, the Rock Wall among others. Along with these novelty acts, there were several food vendors.

During the afternoon comic man Michael Koleman, (seen in Mickey Blue Eyes) and hypnotist Frederick Winters entertained the audience on the mainstage.

Two other opening bands then had their moments in the limelight. The Sound of Urchin and Electraswere two bands that were added at the last minute who performed for the crowd.

At 8:00 pm the moment the crowd was waiting for finally arrived. The Urge exploded on the stage with new songs along with their known hits Jump Right In and Too Much Stereo. The Verve Pipe then reigned the stage with their infamous hits Freshmen, Hero, Television and Cup of Tea.

Despite the rainy weather and a Homecoming game loss the crowd had a great time celebrating during Fall Fest 2000.

TALENT SHOW

SJC had its annual Talent Show sponsored by the Diversity Coalition as a means of encouraging a more integrated community on campus. Many students participated in the event and contributed their talent for an entertaining evening. The following photos were able to capture some of the participants in action... ENJOY!

96.5 PUMA ROCK

May 7th through the 18th, a group of about 25 students, along with some professors made the long flight to do a quick tour of Europe. The group traveled to the cities of Paris, Florence, and Rome, and saw the sights of each. In Paris, everyone was amazed by the beauty of the Eiffel Tower at night when it is lit up, and were in awe of the cathedral of Notre Dame as it inspired all. From here, the group took an overnight train, which was very interesting, to the Italian city of Florence. Upon arrival, all went up to a neighboring cliff to see the entire city. Here, highlights included this view and the amazing ice cream. Then the group went to Rome and even went to the Vatican and got to see the Pope make an address. Also while in Rome, people went to see the infamous Coliseum, and were amazed by the number and beauty of Rome's many fountains. On the last night, the group went out to eat and had a true Italian dinner.

Overall, the trip was a success. Despite the difficulties that traveling can bring, all had fun. Everyone was able to experience the culture of these European cities up close and personal. Much time on the trip was spent just walking around the city on foot, shopping and sight-seeing, as well as just observing how people lived. All in all, the trip was an incredible experience as it was both entertaining and informative.

Nationally Recognized Artist to Create a Public Sculpture on SJC Campus

It is rare that a small, rural community has the opportunity to watch an artist create a public sculpture in its town. In October the community in the Rensselaer area had just such an opportunity as Valparaiso artist Lynn Olson visited Saint Joseph's College as Artist in Residence. His Residency is sponsored by the Saint Joseph's College Art Department and the Prairie Arts Council through the Lily Endowment Gift IV Project and the Jasper Foundation.

Olson is a nationally recognized fiber-cement artist who has been commissioned to create sculptures for corporations and individuals throughout the U.S. and Canada. He has pioneered a new method of sculpting, using cement as a direct sculpting medium instead of as a casting medium. He explains this technique, which he likens to sculpting with clay, in his book Sculpting With Cement, available from Steelstone Press in Valparaiso.

Olson created a permanent, outdoor sculpture near the Core Building. Olson also conducted an introductory sculpture workshop, Exploring Three Dimensional Form, during his Residency.

Bonnie Zimmer, Chair of the Saint Joseph's College Art Department and the Prairie Arts Council Program Coordinator for Olson's visit, says that the Residency is a "wonderful opportunity" to be able to visit with a nationally known artist while he is at work. "It is also a great way for the Prairie Arts Council and the College to support arts events in the community while promoting a regional artist," she says.

Olson's visit marks the second annual Community Arts Project co-sponsored by the Arts Council and the College. "We're very excited about the collaboration between Saint Joseph's College and the Prairie Arts Council," says Zimmer. "This Residency is a wonderful example of the possibilities for community outreach and collaboration." courtesy of http://www.saintjoe.edu/whats_new/announcements.html?id=757

Zimmer shows a creative alternative to other minors

Rensselaer artist Bonnie Zimmer, who has been teaching art classes at Saint Joseph's College since 1980, has been working to enrich the College's existing art curriculum and increase the visibility of the arts programs on campus. "I want to build up the visual art program, but I also hope to see art become a lively extracurricular activity at the College as well," says Zimmer.

Zimmer has seventeen years experience teaching grade 1-12 in public schools and has received numerous awards for her efforts in art education, most recently being named the 1998 Western Region Art Educator of the Year by the National Art Education Association.

Saint Joseph's College currently supports an 18 credit Art minor, but Zimmer hopes to develop both an Art major and an Art Education major. She has been working toward making the existing classes dynamic, often augmenting studio work in Design, Ceramics, Fiber, Drawing, Painting, and Printmaking with field trips and work at remote locations. "My classes also regularly take field trips to visit museums like the Art Institute of Chicago and the Indianapolis Museum," she says. "Trips like these enrich the students' experience with art."

Zimmer notes that art plays an important role in the College's curriculum beyond the Art program itself. Saint Joseph's distinctive Core Program is committed to including an appreciation of the arts in its curriculum. Also, art classes are included as electives in the proposed Human Services major and are a fundamental part of the Elementary Education major, in which students satisfy art requirements they will need to receive a teaching license. "I consider the foundations classes for the Elementary Education majors to be among the most important classes I've taught anywhere," says Zimmer. "because these students are future educators who will impact the lives of hundreds of children."

Exhibitions that feature student work are now being held at the end of each semester. Zimmer's painting class recently fashioned a classroom into a painting studio, separate from the studio space for the other art classes. The students have also formed an Art Club, which has hosted a number of activities in its first year, including a trip to the Art Exposition at Chicago's Navy Pier and the hosting of a number of workshops.

The Art Club also planned a trip to the Indianapolis Museum of Art and recently hosted the first in a series of clay workshops entitled "Clayfest in Three Parts." The Prairie Arts Council is providing the funding for these workshops by means of a Lily Endowment and the Jasper Foundation. courtesy of http://www.saintjoe.edu/whats_new/announcements.html?id=639

C.P.P.S.-The Missionaries of the Precious Blood

THE LOCAL C.P.P.S. COMMUNITY... (Above) The Fathers and Brothers at Saint Joseph's College are featured at a celebration honoring the jubilarians on the feast of Saint Gaspar del Bufalo (October 21, 2000). From left to right includes Father Rueve, Father Robbins, Father Kostka, Brother Javier Soto, Father White, Father Gerlach, Father Stang, Father Verdi, Father Tim McFarland, Father McCarthy, Father Heiman, Brother Tim Hemm and Bishop William Higi.

The Missionaries of the Precious Blood are a community of Priests and Brothers who have joined together to live their baptismal commitment by serving the needs of the Church as those needs develop from age to age and from place to place. Rather than being bound by traditional vows, they are united by a special bond of charity or what may be called the "centripetal force of the bond of charity." Rather than being defined by one kind of work, our identity comes from a ministry of the Word of God and from a special devotion to the Precious Blood. The ministry of the Word is the same as Pope John XXIII's call to the Second Vatican Council to bring contemporary culture into dialogue with the gospel, and the devotion to the Precious Blood is the celebration of the central mystery of all Christianity, the Pascal Mystery.

Because the Church, in these times, must rely more than ever on the laity in continuing to build the reign of God, and its justice, the members of the C.P.P.S. community are at Saint Joseph's College as Missionaries forming other missionaries; and are joined in this endeavor by many colleagues, both Catholic and non-Catholic, on the faculty and staff, who contribute mightily to this mission. The C.P.P.S. have a twofold purpose at Saint Joseph's College: as a college, to develop the whole student into a competent professional who can assume a position of influence in society; and, as a Catholic college animated by the Spirit of St. Gaspar to develop fellow missionaries who will multiply many-fold their efforts to make effective in the world the Word of God and the message of the new and everlasting covenant sealed in Christ's Blood. In the end, this marks the C.P.P.S. as faithful sons of Saint Gaspar who prayed that "God will allow me to bear much fruit from my devotion to Saint Joseph. . . I am, so to speak, sold on giving glory to the divine blood, the price of eternal salvation. I would like to have a thousand tongues to draw every heart intimately to it, and I wish my own soul would be totally penetrated with it." picture and text courtesy of Father Tim McFarland at <http://www.saintjoe.edu/~cpps/purpose.html>

CORE 1 New York Trip

For the past three years, the Core One faculty has been organizing an adventure to one of the most exciting cities in the United States. New York City turned out to be a far greater emprise than any of the eighteen students embarking on this year's trip could have ever envisioned. From the first night when the group sat outside the American Youth Hostel and was greeted by a working girl looking to score a dollar to the last evening watching the sun sink into the Hudson River as they walked across the Brooklyn Bridge. New York offered an unparalleled experience of awe and diversity.

For only twenty dollars a night, the American Youth Hostel, provided a place of rest from the fast paced life of New York City. From this point, near the vibrant culture of Harlem, the group separated and ventured to a few of the many and varied symbols of American urbanity. The Statue of Liberty, the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Empire State Building, the World Trade Center, Broadway shows, Times Square, the New York City Subway performers, and even the subway system itself presented a chance to briefly step into the almost musical hum of the living city.

Saint Joseph's College Bands and Color Guard

Saint Joseph's College has a marching band that performs at the home football games, a concert band, a wind ensemble, and a jazz band that hold concerts, a pep band that plays at the home basketball games, and a color guard that also performs with the band at athletic events.

The Saint Joseph's College Bands had a busy schedule this year. In a five week period, the band performed two concerts, marched in the Saint Patrick's Day parade in Chicago, and played at the Great Lakes Valley Tournament (GLVC).

The invitation to play at the GLVC tournament on March 1 was a new experience for the Puma Band. The conference was held from March 1-3, 2001 in Stadium. The band traveled down south for the day to cheer on the Saint Joseph's College men's basketball team. Then the band went on, two weeks later to travel to Chicago on March 17 to play in the Saint Patrick's Day parade.

Evansville at Roberts

The Band Director is Robb Thiel who has been directing the band for the past eight years. The Assistant Director, Joseph (Joey) Tartell, was new to the Puma scene this year. With the extra directing hands, the band was able to do much more than in the past years. Last year there was only one concert band and one performing band, and now Saint Joe has two of each. The band also had separate pep bands for the men's and women's basketball games.

Wind Ensemble

On April 8 the wind ensemble, under the direction of Robb Thiel, gave a performance in the college chapel with music based on scripture and biblical passages. The wind ensemble consists of 42 members who had to audition for the few available seats. It's made up of the best of the Saint Joe band.

This top performing group, even traveled to Evansville and Illinois to perform concerts at various high schools enabling high school students to have a sample of Saint Joe's Fine Arts.

A Family's Prayer

By Christina Fletcher

We remember when you were just a boy laughing, playing, running; each step taking you closer to manhood.

*Though we bandaged wounds and dried tears,
We know it was the hands of The Father that kept you.*

*Now as you close one chapter to begin another,
The real trials of life are sure to come.
And though we want to always be there to protect and support you,
We know it is God who hears and answers all prayers.*

*So as you walk the winding road of life,
Know that we love you, and for you we say a prayer.
"God, in heaven, watch over Desmond. For we know that you are the Shepard who has never lost a sheep, and keep him for all the days of his life.
Amen."*
